What Is the DC Immunization Registry?

The DC Immunization Registry is a computer system that receives and stores childhood and adult immunization records.

The DC Immunization Registry is a free service that gives healthcare providers quick access to important immunization information by keeping records in one, accessible place. The DC Immunization Registry can be accessed online at clinics, schools and managed care organizations.

How Does the Registry Work?

A healthcare provider must sign up to view information from the DC Immunization Registry. Healthcare providers signed up to use the Registry can see what immunization you or your child has already had and what is needed next. The Registry will make it easier to find immunization records for medical appointments or school entry even if you change healthcare providers or schools.

How Does the Registry Benefit Me?

- The Registry will keep a record of your child's immunization history no matter where they were given.
- The Registry will make it easy for you to transfer immunization records if you change doctors or move within the District of Columbia.
- The Registry can print out an immunization record you can use to get your child into school, childcare, or camp.
- Using the Registry, your doctor can remind you to bring your child in for immunizations that are due.
- The Registry will help you and your doctor keep your child safe and protected from Vaccine Preventable Diseases.

Is My Immunization Information Safe in the DC Immunization Registry?

The privacy of your or your child's health information is important. Healthcare providers, schools, and childcare centers are required to report immunization information to the DC Immunization Registry. All information in the DC Immunization Registry is kept safe and private and can be seen only by healthcare provider staff who are approved users. According to DC Municipal Regulation, the DC Immunization Registry may use the information to (1) produce aggregate immunization reports, (2) produce official immunization records for individuals, (3) notify a person, person's parent/guardian, healthcare provider, insurer, childcare, or school about needed immunizations, or (4) release identifiable data any other way with the consent of the person or person's parent/guardian. You may request that your immunization record not be disclosed to other users of the DC Immunization Registry.
